

SCOTT WEILAND

WITH DAVID RITZ

NOT DEAD &
NOT FOR SALE

THE EARTHLING PAPERS

A MEMOIR

IN THE EARLY 1990S, STONE TEMPLE PILOTS—not U2, not Nirvana, not Pearl Jam—was the hottest band in the world. STP toppled such megabands as Aerosmith and Guns N’ Roses on MTV and the Billboard charts. Lead singer Scott Weiland became an iconic front man in the tradition of Mick Jagger, David Bowie, and Robert Plant.

Then, when STP imploded, it was Weiland who emerged as the emblem of rock star excess, with his well-publicized drug busts and trips to rehab. Weiland has since made a series of stunning comebacks, fronting the supergroup Velvet Revolver, releasing solo work, and, most recently, reuniting with Stone Temple Pilots. He still struggles with the bottle, but he has prevailed as a loving, dedicated father, as well as a business-savvy artist whose well of creativity is far from empty.

These earthling papers explore Weiland’s early years as an altar boy right along with his first experiences with sex and drugs. Weiland discusses his complex relationships with his parents, stepfather, siblings, and the love of his life, Mary Forsberg Weiland. Readers learn the fascinating stories behind his most well-known songs and what it was like to be there at the beginning of the grunge phenomenon, as Rolling Stone proclaimed on its cover: “the year punk broke.” Not Dead & Not for Sale is a hard rock memoir to be reckoned with—a passionate, insightful, and at times humorous book that reads with extraordinary narrative force.

SCOTT WEILAND has been nominated for six Grammys, winning two along with numerous MTV, Billboard, and American Music awards. His work with Stone Temple Pilots and Velvet Revolver, as well as his solo recording, has sold more than 40 million records. In 2010, Stone Temple Pilots released a highly anticipated self-titled album, which immediately became the number one rock album in the country.

DAVID RITZ is the only four-time winner of the Ralph J. Gleason Music Book Award. He has collaborated with Ray Charles, Marvin Gaye, Aretha Franklin, Etta James, and Don Rickles. He also cowrote, with Gaye, the song “Sexual Healing.”

MEET THE AUTHORS, WATCH VIDEOS AND MORE AT

SimonandSchuster.com

• THE SOURCE FOR READING GROUPS •

FRONT JACKET PHOTOGRAPH © ALESEI RAY

BACK JACKET PHOTOGRAPHS COURTESY OF THE AUTHOR

PRINTED IN THE U.S.A. COPYRIGHT © 2011 SIMON & SCHUSTER

BIOGRAPHIES:

Divided Soul: The Life of Marvin Gaye

Faith in Time: The Life of Jimmy Scott

AUTOBIOGRAPHIES:

Ray Charles: Brother Ray

Smokey Robinson: Inside My Life

B.B. King: Blues All Around Me

Etta James: Rage to Survive

The Neville Brothers: The Brothers

Jerry Wexler: Rhythm & the Blues

Aretha Franklin: From These Roots

Walter Yetnikoff: Howling at the Moon

Robert Guillaume: Guillaume: A Life

Laila Ali: Reach

Gary Sheffield: Inside Power

Felicia "Snoop" Pearson:

Grace After Midnight

Lang Lang: Journey of a Thousand Miles

Don Rickles: Rickles' Book

Don Rickles: Rickles' Letters

Leiber and Stoller: Hound Dog

Paul Shaffer: We'll Be Here for the Rest of Our Lives

Grandmaster Flash: The Adventures of Grandmaster Flash: My Life, My Beats

Tavis Smiley: What I Know for Sure

Cornel West: Brother West

Archbishop Carl Bean: I Was Born This Way

Natalie Cole: Love Brought Me Back

Janet Jackson: True You

NOVELS:

Search for Happiness

The Man Who Brought the Dodgers

Back to Brooklyn

Blue Notes Under a Green Felt Hat

Barbells and Saxophones

Family Blood

Take It Off! Take It All Off!

Passion Flowers

Sanctified Blues (cowritten with Mable John)

Stay Out of the Kitchen! (cowritten with Mable John)

Love Tornado (cowritten with Mable John)

INSPIRATIONAL:

Messengers: Portraits of African American

Ministers, Evangelists, Gospel Singers, and Other Messengers of "the Word"

NOT DEAD &
NOT FOR SALE

THE EARTHLING PAPERS

A MEMOIR

SCOTT WEILAND

WITH DAVID RITZ

SCRIBNER

NEW YORK LONDON TORONTO SYDNEY

SCRIBNER
A Division of Simon & Schuster, Inc.
1230 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10020
www.SimonandSchuster.com

Copyright © 2011 by Scott Weiland

All rights reserved, including the right to reproduce this book or portions thereof in any form whatsoever. For information address Scribner Subsidiary Rights Department, 1230 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10020.

First Scribner hardcover edition May 2011

SCRIBNER and design are registered trademarks of The Gale Group, Inc., used under license by Simon & Schuster, Inc., the publisher of this work.

The Simon & Schuster Speakers Bureau can bring authors to your live event. For more information to book an event contact the Simon & Schuster Speakers Bureau at 1-866-248-3049 or visit our website at www.simonspeakers.com.

Designed by Brian Chojnowski

Manufactured in the United States of America

10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

Library of Congress Cataloging-in-Publication Data

Weiland, Scott.

Not dead & not for sale / Scott Weiland with David Ritz. —1st Scribner hardcover ed.

p. cm.

1. Weiland, Scott, 1967– 2. Rock musicians—United States—Biography. 3. Stone Temple Pilots (Musical group). I. Ritz, David. II. Title. III.

Title: Not dead and not for sale.

ML420.W357A3 2010

782.42166092—dc22 2010025147

[B]

ISBN 978-0-7432-9716-5

ISBN 978-1-4391-9997-8 (ebook)

All photographs are courtesy of the author unless noted otherwise.

“Fall To Pieces” © 2004; “For A Brother”; “The Last Fight”; “Mary Mary” © 2007 Chrysalis Music/Ready Set Go Publishing/Dracsorum Music/Pimp Music/DTK Music. By Scott Weiland/Ma

Sorum/Duff McKagan/David Kushner/Saul Hudson. All Rights Administered by Chrysalis Music (ASCAP). All Rights Reserved. Used By Permission. International Copyright Secured. All other lyrics by Scott Weiland used by permission, courtesy of the author; Foxy Dead Girl Music; Triple K Music; Noplate; and Bug Music, Inc.

Content

A Tale of Two Fathers

A Tale of Two States

“Trippin as I’m Thinkin’” —from “Crackerman”

Former Movie Star Ronald Reagan is President of The United States

What the Fuck Does “Soi-Disant” Mean? (We really never knew. Fuck art, let’s fart.)

The Tale of the Pork Chop

New Kid in Town

Art School Girl

High as the Sun

Summer of Mary

Summer of Music

“I See the These are Lies to Come” —from “Plush”

Winter of our Discontent

Summer Kiss

Purple Wounds They Ease The Pain

“What’s Real What’s for Sale?” —from “Vaseline”

Breathing is The Hardest Thing—from “Interstate Love Song”

“Confusion Is My Illusion” —from “Unglued”

“I’m a Selfish Piece of Shit —from “Barbarella”

“Wanna Make a Rock Record?”

“The Painted Clown” —from “Lady, Your Roof Brings Me Down”

“Falling Further with a Flaming Hand” —from “Pruno”

Positive Soul Regeneration

Noah

The Devil’s in the Sun

Lucy

I Was Back There

Wind and Rock

“Journal of Memories, Feeling Lonely Can’t; Breathe” —from “Fall to Pieces”

Tenacity

“I Wanna Know Why You Have to Go”

The Day We Lost Our Lives

The Smoking Gun

Parisian Nightmare

Shoes of a Dark Clown

Cleaning Jimmy Choos with Holy Water

Acknowledgments

I dedicate this book to my beautiful children, Noah and Lucy

NOT DEAD & NOT FOR SALE

The Earthling Papers

As a baby, I was a dead-ringer for my son, Noah. Here I am, already interested in music and, as you can see, a believer that one should own one's own albums.

PRELUDE to the PRELUDE

This memoir took me unknowingly to new highs and new and uncharted lows. It's been a pleasure to work with David Ritz, an artist and tireless worker. I've relived pains as well as the highest of heights. I've felt deflated and elated to dig through the maze that is the mind and soul. Mining through the cobwebs to explore the why's and why not's. The human heart filled with sorrows and gold inspired me to dig further through this marathon or labyrinth in order to get the answers, find truth, and forgive injustices endured in order to move forward happy mostly, sad lovingly, and purged of the nightmares of the past. It's been a grand endeavor.

But worth it.

Peace to All,

Scott R. Weiland

IT'S 2010 AND IMPROBABLY —hell, impossibly—Stone Temple Pilots is back together and blazing hot, especially after our second single debuted at number one.

Our new single debuted at number one.

Our new album is selling like crazy.

Old fans are back. New fans are lining up. Even the critics, who once delighted in deflating us, are praising us to the sky.

We were written off as the band of disastrous dysfunction with too many personal problems to survive. Or rather, I was written off as the guy whose hopeless addictions had—and would always—ruin everything for everyone.

Well, here we are, like Led Zep, playing sold-out arenas all over the world.

I couldn't be happier.

And I couldn't be more pissed because one rock-and-roll rag, our nemesis from back in the day, has, like the monster from the black lagoon, reemerged. They did a profile of me that was so off it didn't even recognize myself. Quotes were taken out of context and old clichés about me were rewritten to look new.

Well, maybe the timing of this wrong-headed article isn't so bad after all. Maybe it serves to remind me how glad I am to be offering up my own story in my own words. As you'll see, I'm not afraid of documenting details about the life I've led. I have nothing to hide. I've done what I've done. I've done loads of things right and loads of things wrong that could be considered uncouth. It's all here, all documented in my dreams, my musical schemes, my drama-poem-lyrics.

You'll see that much of this has to do with love. I'm in love with love—or is it the idea of being in love with love? I believe that love only happens truly twice, but why, I wonder, does love always equate to a broken heart?

With all this in mind, I've decided to tell my story. I've sold nearly 40 million records and at the time I didn't appreciate it much. I felt it would be different later with Magnificent Bastards, both solo records (Twelve Bar Blues and Happy in Galoshes), Velvet Revolver, and finally the rebirth of STP. This book is an attempt to appreciate the complexity of so much success in the midst of so much chaos.

I wrote these “Earthling Papers” so you can hear directly from me. I'm not arrogant enough to call it the truth. But I do call it my truth. My life had been twisted, demoralized, redemptive, remarkable.

Let me start by jumping back to the point, only two years ago, when my mind was a mess.
Be ready for the rabbit hole.

PRELUDE

EVERY TIME I TRY TO CATCH UP TO MY LIFE , something stops me. Different people making claims on my life. Old friends telling me new friends aren't true friends. All friends trying to convince me that I can't survive without them.

Then there are the pay-for-hire get-off-drugs professionals with their own methods and madness. They help, they hurt, they welcome me into their institutions ... and, well, their madness.

Welcome to my life.

Two years ago, my life was self-restricted to a sober living house, meaning that I walked through the doors of my own free will. Within hours, I watched the game of communal free will get stepped on, laughed at, and batted around like a Ping-Pong ball.

One of my fellow patients was a rocker chick just turned twenty-one. She had a problem with depression. We met in the lounge and talked the night away, smoking cigarettes, exchanging words of comfort.

"Am I pretty?" she asked me.

"You are beautiful," I told her.

"Everyone says I smell because I haven't showered."

"Everyone can get fucked," I told her. "When you're depressed, you're not exactly in the mood for a shower."

She told me a story of grief and confusion. I listened. When she was through, we hugged goodnight. She kissed me sweetly. She wanted more.

"We can't do this," I said. "It's not right. Not now, not here."

A day later, I was approached by one of the counselors whom I considered a first-class shit talker.

"Rumor has it that the two of you were intimate."

"What's intimate?" I asked.

"Sex."

"No!"

"She obviously has a crush on you."

"Okay. What of it?"

"I heard you two had sex in the Jacuzzi."

"No Jacuzzi," I said. "No sex. Besides, who has sex in a Jacuzzi?"

"I want to know what happened," she insisted.

"We were flirtatious. That was inappropriate. So we stopped."

This young woman was confronted at our next group session. Sixteen hours later, she sliced her leg down past the fatty tissue. She was a cutter. They took her out of the villa and put her in a psych ward.

What can I do about it?

I write a poem, "The Little Villa and Painted Egg."

Minds squall, alcohol, heroin

The man, the boy, the girl

The little villa where you live

You need to fill that pain inside

Xanax, Valium, barbiturates—they ease the easy side

Of all you fucked-up managerial types

You love to rule by what you say

Not by what you find

Beautiful garden, Easter eggs, those that you never really had

You stole our experiences and stole our baskets

That's how you found twenty-one out of fifty-seven

THAT WAS LAST MONTH . This week I'm home dealing with those who "manage" my business life, those who, for their own purposes, direct my moves. They are my partners, assistants, and drug coaches (whom we call "minders"). There is no peace, not for an hour, not for thirty seconds. Someone is always showing up with calculated suggestions and implied instructions. I don't know, but I think I've done pretty well for myself, even during my long-lasting, narcotic misadventures—all without the protective bubble of paranoid employees, partners, and helpers—er, minders.

Meanwhile, the facts are these:

It has been eight and a half years since I shot dope and nearly three years since I did coke.

I still drink. A regular garden-variety boozer, I am like any other barfly or drink-alone kind of guy. My relationship to liquor is not romantic the way I once envisioned my love affair with dope. I struggle to stop drinking, but I don't see it as suicidal. In any event, I'm not drinking today. Today I'm inviting you into the middle of my life and the middle of my head. My heart feels a bit closed off because I'm realizing that there are few people, if any, that I fully trust. That's an amazing statement to make and brings me to what may be the purpose of this book.

How did I get to this point? One word could probably suffice—loss.

I'm searching for explanations.

Someone recently gave me a T-shirt that said, I'M IN LIKE SEVEN BANDS.

There is a Stone Temple Pilots story to tell. There is a Velvet Revolver story to tell. There is a love story to tell. And a drug story to tell.

AMONG MY GREAT LOVES is that category of substances called heroin. Narcotic alkaloids. Derivatives of opium. I describe this stuff lovingly. I do so at the risk of high irresponsibility. It is not my intention to mislead anyone looking to live a righteous life. God knows that the shit will kill you, inside and out, soul to the bone. At the same time, I am committed to an honest assessment of the wreckage of my past. I loved opiates; I hated opiates; I am attracted to opiates perhaps the way John Keats was attracted to death. One hundred ninety years ago, the romantic poet wrote "Ode to a Nightingale":

*I have been half in love with easeful Death,
Call'd him soft names in many a mused rhyme,
To take into the air my quiet breath;
Now more than ever seems it rich to die,
To cease upon the midnight with no pain,
With thou art pouring forth thy soul abroad
In such an ecstasy!*

IS DEATH THE MUSE? Is rock and roll the nightingale? Are opiates the key to unlocking the magic kingdom where colorful flowers fade to black? Why should anyone—especially a kid or a man who suspects that he or she may have talent—be drawn to such a kingdom?

I don't know. Except that the pull is visceral. It may also be an act of self-loathing or anger against home or society or even the human condition in which the promise of death shadows us from those first fresh moments of birth.

I think of the young woman overwhelmed by a compulsion to cut herself. The compulsion is heartbreaking and bizarre, but maybe not bizarre at all—maybe it's simply the most honest compulsion of all because it gets to the heart of the matter. My long opiate-dazed days and sleepless nights were all about cutting myself emotionally. When I got high, the last thing in the world I wanted to do was party or interact with other human beings. I retreated to the dark corners of my room and my life. I stayed alone and disappeared down black holes where no one could find me. I couldn't find myself. I didn't want to find myself. I became invisible. Or, as I put it in the song "Dead and Bloated" "I am smellin' like the rose that someone gave me on my birthday deathbed."

Dad Kent and me at age five

Dad Dave and me at age three

WHY IS THE WORLD SO DIFFERENT NOW? I used to take my fishing rod and go down to the lake by myself. Now the world is one organized playdate after another.

In my childhood, I relied on my imagination—I could walk in the woods and be in Camelot, Narnia, or wherever my mind envisioned. I had a vivid imagination, and still do. Today, though, how can you compete with a computer that, with the touch of a button, gives you every answer to every question?

In a technologically more innocent era, I was born Scott Kline in Santa Cruz, California, on October 27, 1967, to Sharon and Kent Kline, who divorced when I was two. Then Mom married Dave Weiland and I became Scott Weiland. I lost my name. I lost my father. I gained another father. Later I resented the hell out of my blood father, Kent, for not insisting that I keep his name. I felt abandoned. Gave his name away, gave his son away. Meanwhile, I saw Kent as a cool dude who drove a Pepsi truck for a living but smoked dope at night and listened to the Doors and Merle Haggard. When I think about my dad and Martha, the artist he married after Mom, I hear Fleetwood Mac's Rumours. Kent's the father I wanted to be with. At age forty-two, I'm still looking to connect with him.

My new dad was a good guy whose middle name was discipline. An aeronautics engineer with TRW Space and Electronics, he was always working on advanced degrees. Shortly after he married Mom, he moved us to Chagrin Hills, a woodsy suburb outside Cleveland, Ohio.

I'm stuck on that name—Chagrin Hills. Chagrin means distress, pain, anxiety, sorrow, affliction, mental suffering. Usually, idyllic suburbs have names like Pleasant Valley or Paradise Falls. Chagrin Falls makes no sense. In some ways, my childhood made good sense; in other ways, it didn't.

My childhood was green pastures and bee stings, learning to play baseball and football, living in a nice house, waiting—always waiting—for the start of summer so I could go to California and see my dad Kent.

I was already a teenager when this dream started recurring. Its form changed slightly, but the basic structure stayed the same:

Posters are plastered all over the city—on billboards and buses, in splashy newspaper ads and screaming TV commercials. It's all over the radio and the Internet. It's tonight, it's now, it's what the world's been waiting for.

It's the ultimate Battle of the Bands.

Midnight tonight at a great outdoor stadium. The witching hour. The dark night of the soul. The moment of truth.

It's three years before I'm born.

Or maybe it's the year of my birth, or the moment of my birth.

Or maybe I'm three years old. Or five. Or ten.

Whatever my age, I'm there. I'm involved. I'm engaged. I'm riveted by the battle. My life is at stake.

My pulse is racing, my heart pounding inside my chest. The excitement has me crazy with anticipation.

Two bands. Two bandstands.

The Rolling Stones versus the Kingston Trio.

Over the Stones flies a pirate flag. Over the Kingston Trio flies the stars and stripes.

Chaos versus Order.

Nihilism versus Responsibility.

Crooked versus Straight.

The crowd fills the stands.

Half of them are fraternity boys and sorority girls, suits and dresses, blazers and loafers. The other half are freaks, punks, dopers, bikers, renegades.

I'm sitting in the dugout next to my mom.

My father is introducing the Stones. He and Keith are dressed identically in psychedelic bell bottoms. He and Mick are sharing a joint. He calls the Stones "the greatest rock-and-roll band in the world."

My stepdad introduces the Kingston Trio. They're all wearing button-down blue oxford shirts and neatly pressed khaki trousers. My stepdad says, "This is real music. This is harmony. This is beauty."

My father shouts over to him, "This is darkness! This is the real shit!"

"Go out there," my mom whispers in my ear. "Go out there and help."

I run out onto the field. I look up and see a hundred thousand screaming people. The bands have started playing simultaneously. Riffs of "Satisfaction." Riffs of "Tom Dooley." I run toward my dad, Kent, but he's disappeared into the crowd. Mick and Keith don't know me. Security is chasing after me. I'm chasing after my dad, but I can't find him. I'm running up and down, running all over the stadium, but I can't find him, can't find him, crying hysterically, I can't find my dad ...

FATHERS AND SONS, SONS AND BROTHERS.

My brother, Michael, was born to my stepfather and my mother when I was four and a half. On the day Mom came home from the hospital, I remember bright sunshine lighting our house. When I saw my baby brother, I was filled with wonder. He was fast asleep; he looked helpless, adorable, more doll-like than human. Whenever he squeezed my finger with his tiny hand, I felt flooded with love. I wouldn't feel that kind of pure love until the birth of my own children. For the first time in my life instead of worrying about being protected, I had someone to protect.

- download Let Loose the Dogs \(Detective Murdoch Series, Book 4\)
- click Yellow Green Beret: Stories of an Asian-American Stumbling Around U.S. Army Special Forces, Volume 1 pdf, azw \(kindle\)
- read Nocturne: Creatures of the Night pdf
- Artemis Invaded \(Artemis Awakening, Book 2\) pdf, azw \(kindle\), epub
- download Grain of Mustard Seed: Poems pdf, azw \(kindle\)

- <http://aircon.servicessingaporecompany.com/?lib/Let-Loose-the-Dogs--Detective-Murdoch-Series--Book-4-.pdf>
- <http://nautickim.es/books/Yellow-Green-Beret--Stories-of-an-Asian-American-Stumbling-Around-U-S--Army-Special-Forces--Volume-1.pdf>
- <http://thewun.org/?library/Nocturne--Creatures-of-the-Night.pdf>
- <http://www.rap-wallpapers.com/?library/Artemis-Invaded--Artemis-Awakening--Book-2-.pdf>
- <http://omarnajmi.com/library/La-Compagnie-Noire--Les-Annales-de-la-Compagnie-Noire--Tome-1-.pdf>